Happy in My heartache - Josh Groban

Coffee is on the table, and I Iust can't seem to wake Up this aching heart of mine One more day without you and I'll be fine I know I'm good for waiting But waitings wasted time Oh and I, I don't take it lightly, The trouble that I've gone through, To get you to know who I am Oh and I, I can't find a reason To be happy in this heartache, 'Cause I should know better than that I'm better than that Wicked winds are blowing through the halls These old familiar faces are Clinging to the walls I know its cold but I can't feel at all And I know these walls are crumbling, And I won't stay to watch them fall Oh and I, I don't take it lightly, The trouble that I've gone through, To get you to know who I am Oh and I, I can't find a reason To be happy in my heartache, 'Cause I should know better than that But I can't stop loving you I don't know what to do To keep holding on Oh and I, I don't take it lightly, The trouble that I've gone through,

I've given you all that I am

Oh and I,
I can't find a reason
To be happy in my heartache,
'Cause I should know better than that
Oh I'm better than that
