

Not Every Moment – 80s Love Song

It wasn't loud, it wasn't bright
Just another passing day
But something in the way you turn
Still hasn't gone away
No promises, no grand goodbyes
No words we had to say
But something quiet stayed with me
From how you smile that day
Not every moment needs a reason
Not every story needs a name
Some things stay without a meaning
Still they never fade away
Like a light you barely notice
Till it sorrowfully disappears
Still it lingers
Somewhere deeper through the passing of
The years
I've lived a thousand days since then
But none feel quite the same
There's something in that memory
That time could never change
Maybe simple things are Stronger
Than the ones we try to hold
Not every moment needs a reason
Still it stays with me somehow
And I find it in the silence
Even now
