Home – Above & Beyond (feat. Hannah Thomas)

Here I come to find myself, catch the tide, Looking for a peace at the end of the line Sometimes I can't help myself, fever's high, I'm all at sea and so unwise I'm so afraid I'll lose your love, As time goes by, But courage is a fire and a beacon so bright The sunset built a memory, our love sign, And all at sea we come alive Will I wash away, turning like a stone? I need a place where I belong Call a setting sun to throw me down a rope And take me to a place called home I close my eyes, I know you're there, Love of mine, Standing on the shore in a world I design The sunset fires a lonely flare into the sky, And all at sea we say goodbye Will I wash away, turning like a stone? I need a place where I belong Call a setting sun to throw me down a rope And take me to a place called home Looking for a place called home Will I wash away, turning like a stone? I need a place where I belong Call a setting sun to throw me down a rope And take me to a place called home Looking for a place called home
