

Naturally – Allen Stone

Oh beautiful lady, Maybelline baby
Hearing from her mirror
That her dukes are not daisies
Her shape and size, they don't need advice
She paints up that face, to make sure those Blemishes hide
Coffee and cigarettes
Calorie noose around the neck
Dolling up for disrespect, disrespect,
Disrespect
Popping pills and posting pics
Stressing on her waist and hips
Her body's right, the world is sick
World is sick, world is sick
Flower, flower, growing free
All your petals, they look good to me
You're just the way that you should be
You're beautiful naturally, you're beautiful
Naturally
Oh beautiful maiden, L'Oréal patron
Wasting all her money on that Body she keeps hating
Her ass and thighs they don't need advice
'Cause the magazine rack
Keeps saying that her rack's the wrong size
Coffee and cigarettes
Calorie noose around the neck
Dolling up for disrespect, disrespect,
Disrespect
Popping pills and posting pics
Stressing on her waist and hips
Her body's right, the world is sick
World is sick, world is sick
Flower, flower, growing free
All your petals, they look good, to me
And you're just the way, that you should be

You're beautiful naturally
You're beautiful naturally
ooohhh
Flower, flower, growing free
All your petals,
They look (so damn)good, to me
And you're just the way, that you should be
You're beautiful naturally,
You're beautiful naturally
You're beautiful naturally,
You're beautiful natural
