Pieces of a Dream – Anastacia

I thought I saw you late last night But it was just a flash of light An angel passing But I remember yesterday Life before you went away And we were laughing We had hope and now it's broken And I could see it clearly once When you were here with me And now somehow all that's left are Pieces of a dream And now I'm lost in restless nights Just a whisper of the life That we created Shadows falling I am calling And I could see it clearly once When you were here with me And now somehow all that's left are Pieces of a The faded photographs The frames of broken glass The shattered memories Time will soon erase All these souvenirs Falls from a thousand tears But when I wake up you are never there We had hope and now it's broken And I could see it clearly once When you were here with me And now somehow all that's left are Pieces of a And I could see it clearly once When you were here with me And now somehow all that's left are
