When Love Is The Missing Word – Cretu & Thiers

Said I'd try to be alone I didn't know my real inside The Sun went down I'm overflown by need I can't fight the time I can't find the line And it brings me back to earth And I can hear what somebody's saying When love is the missing word Tell me where you go from here When love is the second hurt tonight Nobody can survive When love is the missing word Tell me where you go from here Nobody could help me For the time One hurt I never knew before Was you pushing it too far The second's been the feature Of your mind I can't fight the time I can't find the line And it brings me back to earth Why is your treat to be unkind When love is the missing word Tell me where you go from here When love is the second hurt tonight Nobody can survive When love is the missing word Tell me where you go from here Nobody could help me

For the time
