

Modern Fears – Electric Youth

They can say what they say
But you need a heart to have
Heart like you do
You're too, you're too careful
To truly not care
I don't believe that it's true
Oh, you might shed some tears
But these modern fears won't hold you down
And oh, it might take some years
But these modern fears won't be around
How can you be modest
When you know that, that you're number one?
I know you're not over even if they think
This time you're done
Oh, you might shed some tears
But these modern fears won't hold you down
And oh, it might take some years
But these modern fears won't be around
Oh, you might shed some tears
But these modern fears won't hold you down
And oh, it might take some years
But these modern fears won't be around
