

Living Apology – Movements

Are you afraid to be the person that you are?

And in the light are you surprised at

What you see?

Does it hurt to lock yourself up in the dark?

Does it help to know you're living

Just like me?

A harsh world for a gentle soul

A tight mask makes a dented skull

Keeping secrets that you can't let go

Afraid to face the side that no one knows

And I'll

Skim the in-between

Find the semblances

I seek for safety

Make sure no one sees

This identity is bound to break me

Stay quiet about it

There's no way around this

I'll cover my tracks It's

The perfect reaction

My skin becomes calloused

To make sure

You won't find the rest of me

Hiding underneath

You won't find the rest of me

Hiding underneath

What's it like to live your life

As someone else?

Most of the time

It isn't really what it seems

And it feels better just to stay

Inside a shell

'Cause in the end I still have

Most of what I need

A harsh world for a gentle soul

Keeping secrets that you can't let go
I've come to terms knowing I'll never grow
But what am I following?
A living apology
What am I following?
A living apology (apology)
And I'll
Skim the in-between
Find the semblances
I seek for safety
Make sure no one sees
This identity is bound to break me
Stay quiet about it
There's no way around this
I'll cover my tracks It's
The perfect reaction
My skin becomes calloused
To make sure
You won't find the rest of me
Hiding underneath
Hiding underneath
