

The Spire – Phedora

Locked inside, I'm alone tonight
My anger makes no sense now
The crown of hate lays split in two
Had to crawl, 'cause You let us fall,
If we don't see the bottom
How could we know we're rising up?

Somehow we lived too loud
To hear Your voice
Somehow we lived too fast
To see the road
And the way was never shut
And the path was always clear
And the gate was never locked
'Cause we've always had the key
I can't leave until I forgive
That it was all for nothing
They'll raise the spires of their own
Mercy was stripping them of choice
But You've given them anger
Only so they could find their peace

Somehow we lived too loud
To hear Your voice
Somehow we lived too fast
To see the road
And the way was never shut
And the path was always clear
And the gate was never locked
'Cause we've always had the key
As I'm climbing the Spire,
I'm running out of breath
'Cause my way back to heaven
Has seven billion steps
And I've never lost my sight,
I just chose to be blind

And I've never lost my sight,
I just chose to be blind
This Spire's a lighthouse
For every broken soul
A beacon in the darkness
To light the way back home
World, I forgive you!
World, I forgive you-oouuu!
(INSTRUMENTAL)

With my scars,
With my hopes
I am at the gate,
Screaming
"I've come home!"
Down from hell,
Through the Earth
I am at the gate,
Screaming "I've come home!"
Not a demon, not an angel
I am at the gate,
Screaming "I've come home!"
Lost my faith,
Found myself
I am at the gate,
Screaming "I've come home!"
And the gate,
Screaming "I've come home!"
