Love Kills - Roberto Bellarosa

So the arrow shot right through her heart And rocked her to the core And she fell so deep Like she had never fell so deep before But the pain was almost unbelievable When the end was near, She felt the fear alive Waiting for the bitter pill Give me something i can feel 'Cos love kills over and over Love kills over and over Waiting for the bitter pill Something i can truly feel 'Cos love kills over and over Love kills over and again 'Cos he didn't fight for life When he was up against the wall And he felt so scared for both of them Even though they had it all There's a lesson that you always have to learn Through the consequence of fire comes the burn Waiting for the bitter pill Give me something i can feel 'Cos love kills over and over Love kills over and over Waiting for the bitter pill Something i can truly feel 'Cos love kills over and over Love kills over and again One last, One last, One last breath for life Won't you give me, Give me hope tonight Waiting for the bitter pill

Give me something i can feel

Love kills over and over
Love kills over and over
Waiting for the bitter pill
Something i can truly feel
'Cos love kills over and over
And love kills over and again
