

The Sound Of War – Susanne Sundfør

Leave all the silverware
'Cause you won't need it where
You are going tonight
Dust on the china
The spiders take over
Without your gracious hands
Chaos remains
The clock the sole reminder
Leave this ghost town
Before they burn it down
Before they take the crown
Before you hear the sound
The buzzing of the drone
Verdict unanimous
Dawn will turn to dust
And the snow falls down
Your footsteps on the ground
Are lost in the silence
We will no longer fear
Sirens and despair
Our songs live on
In the era of stone
A red blinking Zion
Leave all that you were
'Cause you won't need it where
You are going tonight
